SITUATIONAL AWARENESS

- Weeks after lifting stay-at-home orders, some states are seeing record numbers of hospitalizations from COVID-19 as thousands more Americans get infected every day. "We're going to have to face the harsh reality in some states that we may need to shut down again," said Dr. Jonathan Reiner, a professor at George Washington University School of Medicine. And the second wave of state shutdowns could be more damaging than the first. "Another round of shutdowns might have even larger effects on businesses that may be on the edge of not being able to stay solvent," said Dr. Christopher Murray, director of the Institute for Health Metrics and Evaluation at the University of Washington.
- The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) rescinded the emergency use authorization for hydroxychloroquine to treat hospitalized COVID-19 patients on Monday, saying the drug carries too many risks without any apparent benefit.
- Governor Whitmer has signed Executive Order 2020-123, requiring testing standards inside facilities. The executive order requires nursing facilities to conduct the following COVID-19 testing for residents and staff:
 - Initial testing of all residents and staff.
 - Testing of all new or returning residents during intake unless tested within 72 hours of intake.
 - Testing of any resident or staff member with symptoms or suspected exposure.
 - Weekly testing of all previously negative residents and staff in facilities with any positive cases among residents or staff, until 14 days after the last new positive result.
 - Weekly testing of all staff in regions of medium or higher risk on the MI Safe Start Map.
 - Testing of all staff in Regions 1 through 5 and 7, at least once between the date of this order and July 3, 2020.
 - Nursing facilities are required to submit plans for testing by June 22 and to implement those plans by June 29.
- According to the first comprehensive overview of reported COVID-19 cases in the U.S., the CDC reports that hospitalizations were 6 times higher and deaths were 12 times higher for COVID-19 patients with reported underlying conditions compared to those with no reported underlying conditions.
