SITUATIONAL AWARENESS

- The CDC offered up a list of ways to help minimize the risk for voters: go at off-peak times, like midmorning; monitor the voter line from your car and join when the line is short; fill out any needed registration forms ahead of time and review a sample ballot at home to cut down on time spent at the polling location; and take your own black ink pen, or stylus to use on touch-screen voting machines.—The New York Times
- Michigan is moving into dangerous new territory with COVID-19. A research group called COVID Act Now, has upped the risk level from 'high' to 'active or imminent outbreak'. The researchers state: "Michigan is either actively experiencing an outbreak or is at extreme risk... Now, it appears that our risk status was changed because our case numbers are continuing to go up and up. If you look at last week alone, Michigan had over 13,000 new cases. That's the most we've had reported since the pandemic began.—Detroit WXYZ
- Michigan restaurants were required to begin tracking the names and numbers of customers in case of COVID-19 outbreaks beginning Monday, Nov. 2 under a policy announced last week as the state experiences surges in cases of the virus.—The Detroit News
- Britain is going on a roughly month-long lockdown as coronavirus cases to surge, Prime Minister Boris Johnson announced. From November 5 to December 2, people will only be permitted to leave their homes for a short list of reasons, such as childcare, work, exercise, medical issues, or shopping for basic needs. Bars and restaurants will only be allowed to provide take-out options and non-essential stores will have to close.—CBS News
